Pollinator Partnership hosts a number of programs to support pollinators in agricultural landscapes. Bee Friendly Farming (BFF) is a certification program from Pollinator Partnership working with farmers to help protect, preserve and promote pollinator health. BFF provides guidelines for farmers and growers to promote pollinator health on their lands. The program is also overseen by a task force of experts from the North American Pollinator Protection Campaign (NAPPC) including scientists and farmers, as it strives to set standards for sustainable farming on important concepts like planting pollinator food resources, providing nesting habitat, and incorporating an integrated pest management strategy. BFF helps ensure the future of both pollinators and sustainable agriculture as it expands across North America and around the globe. The California AgLand Network for Pollinators (CAN for Pollinators) program supports producers who are enthusiastic about increasing pollinator habitat and receiving financial and technical support for implementing on-farm practices that support pollinators in California. Through a USDA NRCS Regional Conservation Partnership Program, CAN for Pollinators is offering contracts to distribute over $1,000,000 to California's farmers and ranchers to help them build habitat on their property. Lastly, the Enhanced Farmland for Pollinators, Crops, and Soil program, funded through the California Department of Food and Agriculture Pollinator Habitat Program, supports projects that will be designed so that regionally appropriate species are chosen to support pollinators and soils. Priority will be given to plant species that have high establishment rates, low cost, drought tolerance,

Pollinator Education:

Pollinator Partnership's Pollinator Stewardship Certification (PSC) program provides home gardeners, land managers, farmers, government, and community scientists with the scientific know-how to make a real difference for pollinators, people, and the planet. The training features expert topic speakers, the latest pollinator research, and provides participants with the information needed to become powerful pollinator protectors. The School Garden Kit (SGKs) program aims to support teachers, administrators, guardians, youth groups, after school programs, amongst others, in guiding students through a discovery process that will increase students' understanding in science, math, and language arts by connecting them to plants, pollinators, food, and gardens by (potentially) creating habitat for pollinators. We say "potentially" because building a school habitat garden requires a real commitment. Planting the garden habitat is relatively easy, but making it grow, thrive, and survive several seasons is a commitment and a challenge. The School Garden Kit helps expose students to new ideas about food, wildlife, and plants. It should also help students choose behaviors that support their own health, the health of the planet, and all its
